Rejoining the Local Government Pension Scheme (LGPS)

This information applies only to Scheme members who left an employment after 31 March 2014 with an entitlement to a deferred benefit in the LGPS, were in the scheme on both the 31 March and 1 April 2014, and who re-joined the LGPS again without having had a continuous break in active membership of a public service pension scheme of more than 5 years since ceasing to be an active member of the LGPS in the employment to which the deferred benefit relates.

You have re-joined the Local Government Pension Scheme (LGPS) and we note that you have previous deferred benefits in the LGPS.

If you were awarded those deferred benefits as a result of choosing, on or after 11 April 2015, to opt out of membership of the Scheme, those benefits will remain deferred in the Scheme and you cannot add them to the benefits you are accruing in the Scheme in your current job.

Unless you tell us otherwise, the amount of pension you have built up after 31 March 2014 in your deferred pension account will automatically be transferred and added to your new active pension account and the membership you built up before 1 April 2014 in the final salary scheme will continue to count as final salary membership automatically linked to your new active pension account.

You can elect to keep you deferred benefits separate and, if you wish to do so, this must be done within 12 months of re-joining the scheme and while you are still paying into the scheme.

If you make an election to keep your benefits separate you cannot change your decision. If you do not make a decision within the 12 month period of re-joining the scheme then your deferred benefit will automatically be combined with your new active pension account.

Please note that your employer can extend the 12 month window within which you can elect to keep your benefits separate. However, this is an employer discretion and you would need to speak to your current employer if you wish to seek such an extension.

If you have more than one active pension account (because you have more than one current employment in which you are contributing to the LGPS) you will also, if you decide to combine your benefits, need to decide which active pension account you wish your deferred benefit to be combined with.

Decision Required

You can elect to keep you deferred benefits separate and, if you wish to do so, this must be done within 12 months of re-joining the scheme and while you are still paying into the scheme.

If you make an election to keep your benefits separate you cannot change your decision. If you do not make a decision within the 12 month period of re-joining the scheme then your deferred benefit will automatically be combined with your new active pension account.

Please note that your employer can extend the 12 month window within which you can elect to keep your benefits separate. However, this is an employer discretion.

What do I need to consider before making my decision?
At the moment you have a separate deferred benefit for your previous employment in the LGPS. If you take no action this will be automatically combined with your new active pension account.

You need to think about the following things when considering whether or not you should keep your benefits separate:

- How will the benefits from my previous employment be worked out?
- When will my benefits be payable?
- Are there other key areas to consider?

How will the benefits from my previous employment be worked out?
You have built up benefits in the both the final salary scheme (up to 31 March 2014) and the career average scheme (from 1 April 2014). See Working out your benefits in the LGPS in the glossary for information on how these benefits are calculated.

If your previous deferred benefit is combined with your new active pension account then:

i) the membership you built up before 1 April 2014 in the final salary scheme will continue to count as final salary membership. This membership will be linked to your active pension account and when you leave your new employment in the future your final pay in that employment will be used to work out your final salary benefits for your pre 1 April 2014 membership.

   If the membership in the final salary scheme built-up before 1 April 2014 was variable time and your ongoing employment is not variable time then, to ensure you get the appropriate level of membership for that period, your pre 1 April 2014 membership from the employment that has ceased is adjusted, using the following formula:

   $$\textit{Period of membership} \times \frac{\textit{Your annual rate of pay in the variable time employment}}{\textit{Your annual rate of pay in the ongoing employment}}$$
   = adjusted period of membership.

ii) the amount of pension you have built up in the career average scheme from 1 April 2014 would transfer over to your new active pension account.

If you elect to keep separate deferred benefits then your deferred benefits will increase each year in line with inflation, as currently measured by the rise in the Consumer Prices Index (see glossary for more information).

There are, also other matters that you will need to consider including:

When will my benefits be payable?
For the pension you have built up in the final salary scheme (before 1 April 2014) your Normal Pension Age would be protected at age 65. For the pension you have built up in the career average scheme (on or after 1 April 2014) your Normal Pension Age is now linked to your State Pension Age. For more information on Normal Pension Age see the glossary.

<table>
<tr><th colspan="3">What key differences are there if I elected to keep my deferred benefits separate?</th></tr>
<tr><td></td><td>Combined Benefits</td><td>Separate Benefits</td></tr>
<tr><td>Redundancy/ Business Efficiency</td><td>Benefits paid early because of redundancy or efficiency would include the value of earlier deferred benefits that have been transferred.

If you are made redundant or lose your job for business efficiency reasons when aged 55 or over then your benefits would be payable immediately and would include the value of the pension that transferred from your deferred benefit.</td><td>Benefits paid early because of redundancy or efficiency in your new employment would not include the value of earlier deferred benefits.

If you are made redundant or lose your job for business efficiency reasons when aged 55 or over then your benefits would be payable immediately but would not include the value of your deferred benefit (because you had elected to retain that as a separate deferred benefit).

Subject to the information in the boxes below, the separate deferred benefits would be payable at your Normal Pension Age.</td></tr>
<tr><td>Ill- health</td><td>Any benefits paid early because of ill-health would include value of earlier deferred benefits that have transferred.

Your benefits will become payable immediately if your employer decides, based on the opinion of an independent doctor that you are permanently unable to perform the duties of your employment due to ill-health and you are not capable of undertaking other gainful employment.</td><td>Benefits paid early because of ill-health would not include the value of earlier deferred benefits.

Your benefits from your new employment will become payable immediately if your employer decides, based on the opinion of an independent doctor, that you are permanently unable to perform the duties of your employment due to ill-health and you are not capable of</td></tr>
</table>

	Your pension would be paid at an increased level if you are unlikely to be capable of undertaking other gainful employment within 3 years of leaving. The payment would include the value of your pension that transferred from your deferred benefit.	undertaking other gainful employment. Your pension would be paid at an increased level if you are unlikely to be capable of undertaking other gainful employment within 3 years of leaving. The payment would not include the value of your deferred benefit (because you elected to retain that as a separate deferred benefit). Your separate deferred benefit may become payable but that would only be if your former employer decided in light of the view from an independent doctor that you are permanently incapable of the job you were working in when you left the employment in respect of which the deferred benefit was awarded and that you are not likely to be capable of undertaking other gainful employment before your Normal Pension Age or for at least 3 years, whichever is the sooner.
Early payment of benefits	You can voluntarily choose to draw the combined benefits from as early as age 55 (at, normally, a reduced rate to account for the early payment). However, the combined benefits would be payable at the same time (i.e. cannot be paid at different times) and cannot be paid until you have ceased your new employment.	You can voluntarily choose to draw benefits from as early as age 55 (at, normally, a reduced rate to account for the early payment). However, the deferred benefits do not have to be drawn at the same time as the benefits from your new employment. The deferred benefits can be drawn later than, at the same time as, or, subject to being at least age 55, earlier than the benefits from your new employment (even if you are still in your new employment at the time you wish to draw the deferred benefits).

Rule of 85 (see glossary for more information on what this is)	If your previous benefits are combined with your new employment and you have rule of 85 protections these protections will transfer to your new active pension account. However, the date you meet the rule of 85 may move closer to your Normal Pension Age because the break in service between your previous period of membership and your new period of membership will not count towards the rule of 85.	If you decide not to combine your previous benefits with your new active pension account and you have rule of 85 protections then these continue to apply to your deferred benefits only.
Pay upon which pre 1 April 2014 benefits are calculated	If your previous benefits are combined with your new employment the pre 1 April 2014 element of your benefits will continue to be final salary benefits. They will be calculated using your whole-time equivalent final pay in the new employment when you cease membership of the LGPS in that employment (based on the definition of final pay in the final salary scheme). You will need to consider this point carefully if your whole-time equivalent pay in the new employment is less than the whole-time equivalent pay on which your deferred benefit was awarded (as increased in line with the cost of living).	If you decide not to combine your previous benefits with your new active pension account, the pre 1 April 2014 element of your deferred benefit will have been calculated on your whole-time equivalent final pay in the employment that gave rise to the deferred benefits (based on the definition of final pay in the final salary scheme).
Cost of living increases	If your previous benefits are combined with your new employment, the combined benefits in respect of your post 31 March 2014 membership will be subject to revaluation each year in accordance with HM Treasury Orders. The revaluation is currently in line with the rise in the Consumer Prices Index (see glossary for more information). However, in	The benefits in the active pension account will be subject to revaluation each year in accordance with HM Treasury Orders. The revaluation is currently in line with the rise in the Consumer Prices Index (see glossary for more information). However, in times of negative inflation, the revaluation under a HM Treasury Order could times of negative inflation, the revaluation under a HM Treasury Order could be negative. The combined benefits in respect of your pre 1 April 2014 membership will, as mentioned in the previous entry in this table, continue to be final salary benefits. They will be calculated using your whole-time equivalent final pay in the new employment when you cease membership of the LGPS in that employment (based on the definition of final pay in the final salary scheme).	be negative. The benefits in the deferred pension account will be subject to revaluation each year under the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971. Future revaluation is currently in line with the rise in the Consumer Prices Index (see glossary for more information). In times of negative inflation, the revaluation under the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971 would be 0% (i.e. it cannot be a negative amount).

Are there any other key areas to consider?

Death in Service lump sum
As a member of the LGPS if you die in service a lump sum of three times your annual pensionable pay would normally be payable. If you have a deferred pension and die before it is paid, a lump sum equal to 5 times the deferred pension is paid. However, only one amount for lump sum life cover is payable from the LGPS so, even if you keep your deferred benefits separate from your active pension account, only the greater of the lump sum life cover for your deferred benefit or for your active pension account would be payable.

Annual Allowance Potential Tax Implications
You are advised to be aware of any potential tax implications around combining your deferred benefits with your new active pension account. In the unlikely event that a tax charge would apply your Pension Fund would make you aware of the implications. Please read the glossary for more information on annual allowance.

Paying extra contributions
Have you paid extra contributions towards buying additional pension or membership? These would include Additional Voluntary Contributions (AVCs), Added Years, Additional Regular Contributions (ARCs) or Additional Pension Contributions (APCs). Please read paying extra contributions in the glossary to find out what your choices in respect of these are.

Transferring the value of your deferred benefit to another pension scheme
Please note that even if you choose not to combine your benefits you will not be able to transfer the value of your deferred benefits to another pension scheme whilst you are contributing to the LGPS or if you have less than one year to go before reaching your Normal Pension Age.

Please note - If you have more than one active pension account (because you have more than one current employment in which you are contributing to the LGPS) you will also, if you decide to combine your benefits, need to decide which active pension account you wish your deferred benefit to be combined with.